

Health Initiatives and Collaborations Aligned to the HEART Framework: The Flagship Program of the University of the Visayas

As a flagship institutional program, the HEART Framework embodies the University of the Visayas' commitment to a dynamic and socially responsive higher education—one that fully realizes the trifocal functions of instruction, research, and extension. Guided by its mission of fostering human development and social responsibility, the University positions the HEART Framework as a strategic platform that channels its academic expertise toward addressing the needs of deprived, depressed, and underserved communities.

The HEART Framework organizes UV's university initiatives into five flagship projects—Health and Wellness, Ecology and Spirituality, Arts, Culture and Literacy, Resiliency Law and Order, and Technology and Livelihood. Each cluster symbolizes a strategic thrust for community upliftment and a direct expression of the trifocal function in action.

Under the Health and Wellness component of the HEART Framework of the University of the Visayas (UV), the institution advances SDG 3: Good Health and Well-Being through sustained, multi-sectoral collaboration that expands access to essential health services for underserved and geographically isolated populations. The primary purpose of its health initiatives is to enhance equitable access to healthcare through partnerships with local, national, and international stakeholders, while simultaneously promoting preventive and community-based care

HEART Component	SDG Pillars Alignment	Goals	Description	Impact Metrics
Health Services	Outreach	Providing direct, accessible, and comprehensive medical/dental care to underserved populations.	Medical and Dental Mission (Tuburan); LGU Compostela Medical Mission; Halad Pasalamat Outreach; Formal MOA with Sagrada Corazon Health Services.	854 Direct Beneficiaries served; Continuous healthcare access for 1,621 students
Experiential Learning	Teaching	Institutionalizing practical, community-based experience for students in real-world health settings.	Nine (9) Active MOAs for RLE with hospitals, LGUs, and private providers.	Strengthening practical learning for students; Institutionalizing community healthcare delivery.
Access & Partnership	Stewardship	Broadening the reach of services by leveraging multi-sectoral agreements and addressing geographic barriers.	Partnerships with: International (Korea-Philippines Educational & Cultural Exchange Center), Local Government (Tuburan, Compostela), Academic (UV), and Private/NGOs (Pharmaceutical Partners, Sagrada Corazon, various Halad Pasalamat collaborators).	Bridging health access gaps in geographically isolated areas (Tuburan).
Research	Research	Generating empirical evidence to inform public health policy, strengthen health systems, and improve preventive care.	Three (3) Published Research Studies directly aligned with SDG 3.	Empirical support for community health improvement and systems strengthening.
Trust & Sustainability	Stewardship	Building long-term relationships and institutionalizing mechanisms for continuous service delivery	Sustained, Multi-Sectoral Collaboration (MOAs operationalized) integrating research and service delivery; Reinforcement of Preventive Measures (vaccination, deworming, early intervention) ensures long-term public health benefits.	Community Trust and Institutional Reliability confirmed by serving 854 direct beneficiaries through sustained, diverse outreach programs within one year.

University of the Visayas

In 2024, UV operationalized nine (9) active Memoranda of Agreement (MOAs) for Related Learning Experience (RLE) with hospitals, local government units, private health providers, and international partners to institutionalize community-based healthcare delivery while strengthening experiential learning for students.

Through its international partnership with the Korea-Philippines Educational and Cultural Exchange Center, UV conducted a medical and dental mission in the mountainous barangays of Tuburan, Cebu, serving 100 beneficiaries with free consultations, medicines, blood pressure monitoring, and dental extractions. This initiative directly addressed health access gaps in geographically isolated areas through international, local government, and university collaboration.

UV also partnered with the LGU Compostela during its 105th Foundation Anniversary Medical Mission, mobilizing doctors, staff, and students to provide free medicines, health consultations, and gift distribution to 87 beneficiaries, with pharmaceutical partners ensuring adequate medical supplies. This demonstrates effective public-private-academic partnership in expanding primary healthcare services.

Further, during the flagship outreach program Halad Pasalamat, UV collaborated with multiple local and private organizations to deliver comprehensive medical, mental health, diagnostic, and preventive health care services, including bone screening, blood sugar testing, cholesterol and uric acid testing, eye care, deworming, vaccination, and veterinary services. This large-scale initiative served 667 beneficiaries within and outside the university community.

Complementing these community-based services, UV maintains a formal medical services MOA with Sagrada Corazon Health Services Inc. to ensure continuous access to healthcare for students, reinforcing early intervention and preventive health measures among 1,621 university students served in 2024.

Collectively, these collaborative health initiatives served 854 direct beneficiaries within one year, clearly demonstrating University of the Visayas' concrete contribution to SDG 3, specifically under Indicator 3.3.1 on partnerships for health service delivery. Beyond service provision, UV further strengthens its impact through three (3) published research studies directly aligned with SDG 3, providing empirical support for community health improvement, preventive care, and health systems strengthening. This integration of collaboration, service delivery, experiential learning, and research positions UV as an active academic partner in advancing public health outcomes.
